WHO HIDES HIS TIME.

Who hides his time and day by day
Faces defeat full patiently,
And lifts a mournful howl,
However poor his fortune be—
He will not fail in his quest
Of poverty—the only thing
It will grow golden in his palm,
Who hides his time.

Who hides his time, and toasts the sweet
Of honey in the sunset hour,
And though he faces with slowest feet,
Joy runs to meet him, drawing near;
The birds are heralds of his cause,
And like a never-ending rhyme,
The road lies open to his applause,
Who hides his time.

Who hides his time, and toasts the sweet
Of honey in the sunset hour,
And though he faces with slowest feet,
Joy runs to meet him, drawing near;
The birds are heralds of his cause,
And like a never-ending rhyme,
The road lies open to his applause,
Who hides his time.

The road lies open to his applause,
Who hides his time.

Who hides his time, and toasts the sweet
Of honey in the sunset hour,
And though he faces with slowest feet,
Joy runs to meet him, drawing near;
The birds are heralds of his cause,
And like a never-ending rhyme,
The road lies open to his applause,
Who hides his time.

Who hides his time, and toasts the sweet
Of honey in the sunset hour,
And though he faces with slowest feet,
Joy runs to meet him, drawing near;
The birds are heralds of his cause,
And like a never-ending rhyme,
The road lies open to his applause,
Who hides his time.
